TAKE WINE OF CARDUI AT HOME

Are you a sufferer?
Has your doctor been unsuccessful?
Wouldn't you prefer to treat yourself—AT HOME?

Nearly 1,500,000 women have bought Wine of Cardui from their druggists and have cured themselves at home, of such troubles as periodical, bearing down and ovarian pains, leucorrhœa, barrenness, nervousness, dizziness, nausea and despondency, caused by female weakness.

These are not easy cases. Wine of Cardui cures when the doctor can't.

Wine of Cardui does not irritate the organs. There is no pain in the treatment. It is a soothing tonic of healing herbs, free from strong and drastic drugs. It is successful because it cures in a natural way.

Wine of Cardui can be bought from your druggist at $1.00 a bottle and you can begin this treatment today. Will you try it?

ADAM

By KEITH GORDON

...Copyright, 1904, by Frances Wilson...

The girl in the hammock laid her book face downward beside her, a faint, skeptical smile visible about her mouth.

"How do you go about it?" was the question that her eyes asked of the radiant landscape. "It's all very well to say that a woman, if she have not a hump upon her back, may marry whom she will, but how would she go about it?"

The scratching of a match broke the summer stillness, and her meditations were suddenly precipitated from the general to the concrete. She glanced where a man's form bulked in one of the huge wicker chairs. With his hand forming a screen he was lighting a fresh cigar, seemingly oblivious to everything in life except that and the Engineering Journal, which lay in his lap.

He was her brother's best friend, and she had known him for years, not with much satisfaction, it must be confessed, since he was notoriously a "man's man," living in a man's world and regarding the rustle of feminine skirts with something of the same feeling that he did the humming of a mosquito.

But he was good to look upon—so good that a sudden, quick resentment shot through her heart at his indifference. It assumed the likeness of a personal affront, a sort of insult to her sex. It would serve him right if some girl would just make up her mind to marry him and do it, too, before he knew what he was about.

Meanwhile he had tossed away the match and picked up the Journal again as imperturbably as if he were alone, a pair of half indignant eyes watching him with a combination of pique and amusement.

It certainly would serve him right, her thoughts ran on, if some lady would just wind him round and round her finger, make him fetch and carry at her beck and call, reduce him to a perfect mush of sentiment. Something in her steady gaze caused him to move uneasily, then look up.

"Did you speak?"

He had the perfunctory manner of a person who knows he must keep guard over himself or he will be guilty of some remissness. A heroic resolution to do his duty was visible in his face.

"No," she drawled, "I didn't speak. But if you don't mind very much I think I will. I'd like to ask you, for instance, if you have ever had a ladies' day?"

"A ladies' day?" he repeated helplessly, shaking off his eyeglasses with a characteristic movement, while his tormentor watched him as if he had been some sort of a specimen that she had impaled upon a pin. Then a light dawned upon him.

"You mean such as they have at the clubs—a day when the place is given up to your sex and other matters go to the wall? Well, no. I don't know that I ever have had."

"Don't you think it is time?" she ventured.

"Possibly," he admitted, but he still held the Journal in a way that suggested a well nigh unconquerable desire to return to it. She stretched out her hand. Reluctantly he handed it over.

"Did it ever occur to you," she asked blandly, "that the creature who tempted Adam so successfully, who is at the bottom of everything, as it were, must be as—as intricate as your old engineering problems?"

"I have always considered Adam weak—very weak," was his evasive answer. "Men aren't like that nowadays."

At these boastful words a resolution that had been taking form in her mind became full fledged. She was inspired with the sense of a mission. Her neglected sex should find an avenger in her.

"You think you wouldn't have eaten of the apple, then?"

There was a new note in her voice. It was at the same time a challenge and an appeal.

As if it were something absolutely new it came to his mind that girls were delicate, helpless creatures, and a wave of tenderness for the sex swept over him. Still he was very positive that he wouldn't have eaten the apple, and something in the soft, babyish, yet dependent way in which she looked at him caused him to explain at great length why.

"Has talked fifteen minutes by the clock," she was thinking in high glee, but outwardly she was all deferential, honey sweet attention.

"I'm sure he wouldn't have yielded if he'd been like you!" was her earnest comment when he finished speaking, and at the words he was conscious of a pleasant expansiveness, a caressing sense of satisfaction as delightful as it was unusual. It was as if he were growing taller, broader and more severely strong before her very eyes.

"Go back to your reading. I'm not going to bother you another minute." She jumped up and, laying her hand on his arm, finished ingenuously: "You don't mind my bothering you, do you? A girl gets so tired of woman talk! A chat like this is like a plunge in a cold stream." And she vanished into the house and scurried to her room, where she threw a kiss to her image in the mirror, with the remark, "You're doing well for a beginner, my love."

Down on the broad piazza the man had returned to the closely printed columns before him, but after a half hour he gave up.

"I'm stale!" he murmured, throwing the paper on the table. "Wonder where's she gone? Never before realized how interesting she is—for a girl. Had I ever had a ladies' day? Umph! That was funny!" And he smiled at the recollection of it.

For the next two or three days she avoided him as much as possible.

"I must give him plenty of line," she decided craftily, "and never let him suspect that he's taken the bait."

On the third day he proposed a long tramp to her.

"You don't want a silly thing like me," she protested, with modest self depreciation. "I can't talk about bridges and buttresses and caissons and all those interesting things that you know about. I shall only bore you."

"What was it you said the other day about the creature that tempted Adam?" was his laughing reply. "Perhaps I want to take up a new line of study."

"I just made him think I was the most dependent thing that ever lived," she confided shamelessly to her mirror that night. "My timid little feet could scarcely get over the ground without help, and as for climbing fences"—

She went off into a peal of laughter as she remembered how solicitous he had been about her getting over a fence that was in their way—and she who could turn a handspring as well as either of her brothers.

"Of course I couldn't do it if I really liked him," she murmured. Then the girl in the mirror averted her face quickly. "I'm just going to give him a much needed lesson, you know," she went on. This time the girl looked into her eyes for a moment. After that she threw herself on the bed and buried a hot face in the pillows.

As the weeks went by the startling conviction that there was one girl in the world who never bored him, never made him long to escape and get back to his own kind, came to be a certainty to the man. With the coming of this knowledge the world seemed a brighter, livelier place.

The idea of marriage, which had hitherto seemed as remote as that of suicide, came and lodged within his brain as if it were an old friend. He thought, with some scorn, of his former views.

* * * * * *

They were standing under the big apple tree in the back garden. From the ground she picked up one of the round, smooth apples and began to eat it. Something in the action brought back to him the conversation they once had about Adam, and he wondered how he could ever have been so cross, so dense. He held out his hand.

"Please, Eve," he beseeched.

"But you are not like Adam," she began archly.

"No," he said meaningly. "He waited for temptation. I—don't intend to wait!"

And that night she whispered to the girl in the mirror, "What Thackeray says is true!"

To Fill Up Her Time.

The family who had lived for ten years in the small house owned by old lady Crocker had moved away. She asked her agent to secure some quiet and desirable tenants for the property as soon as possible.

The agent advertised and within a few days had a call from a man, who asked numerous questions about the house.

"There are seven good sized rooms," said the agent, "and an excellent cellar. How many are there in your family?"

"My wife and myself and twelve children," said the man.

"Ah," said the agent, "I'm afraid that would hardly do, as Mrs. Crocker is old and something of an invalid and lives next door. She is not particularly fond of children."

"Well," and the man looked indignant, "I shouldn't think she'd mind; there are only five little ones."

But the agent shook his head.

"It's all right anyway," said the man, with a quick change of base. "I don't believe there's land enough around that house, and it's too near the city. What I really want is a place farther out, with an acre or so of ground and a barn and a chance to keep a cow and chickens and room to grow some vegetables, so my wife will have something to take up her spare time."—Youth's Companion.

The Miss of a "Mr."

An amusing illustration of the value of courtesy in the factory is given by the London Engineering Magazine. "At one time," says the writer, "we had some large forging drawings returned to the works, and the order clerk, into whose hands they came, told his errand boy to 'take them to Burnham,' one of the foremen. The boy looked in astonishment, but upon a peremptory order he went off with the drawings. We missed them a day or two later, and upon inquiring of the boy he said, 'You told me to take them to burn 'em, and I did it.' In fact, he had taken those drawings to the boiler room and had them burned, all because the order clerk forgot to use the 'Mr.' when giving his instructions."

Jack and Gill.

Jill or Gill is an abbreviation of the once feminine name Gillian or Juliana. In Icelandic mythology Jack and Gill are two children kidnaped by the moon while drawing water, which is carried on their shoulders in a bucket suspended from a pole. The Swedish peasants still account for the moon spots in this way. A play with the title "Jack and Gill" was popular at the English court between 1567 and 1578. How far back the English nursery rhyme with this title dates is not known, though every school child is familiar with the lines.

TWENTY YEARS' SLEEP.

Rip Van Winkle's Case May Have Been More Fact Than Fiction.

Even superficial students of folklore know that the tale of Rip Van Winkle, supposing that Irving really heard it in the old Dutch settlements along the Hudson, is by no means peculiar to that district, but is found in some form or other all over the world. In other words, the idea that it is possible for a human being to survive in a state of unconsciousness for a very long time would seem to be either a universal fancy or to be founded on some actual experience.

Dr. Lancereaux in the Paris Bulletin of the Academy of Medicine reports such an experience, the case of a woman who actually did, so far as intelligent consciousness was concerned, sleep almost exactly twenty years.

The patient, of a neurotic and hysterical family, had always been delicate and nervous. On May 31, 1883, she was severely frightened and fell into violent hysteria, which after twenty-four hours passed into unconsciousness. In this condition, interrupted every month or six weeks by sudden convulsive attacks, she lay until May 23, 1903, kept alive entirely by injections of nourishment.

On May 23 she was seized with hysteria similar to that at the beginnin of her sleep, and the next day th was another convulsion. On Ma she began definitely to recover sciousness and by the next day able to speak intelligently of before her sleep and could also re ber from day to day since her w Of happenings during her sleep as the drawing of some of he she knew nothing. On the eve May 28 she died peacefully.

The particular case is of chiefly to the medical prof the general fact of surviv sciousness for a very lo how such tales as those Beauty, the Seven Sle and Rip Van Winkle the most familiar exa originated from actu observation. Very curred more than o

Henry VIII. and Puddings.

Bluff King Hal, otherwise Henry VIII. of England, was exceedingly fond of puddings. At one time he gave a certain Mistress Cornwallis a house in Aldgate for herself and her heirs forever "in reward of fine puddings." In King Henry VIII.'s private accounts occur again and again entries of his rewards to different housewives for bringing him puddings. A typical instance runs thus: "Item. The same day paid to the wife that made the king podings at Hampton corte, vis. viijd." This would be about $1.75, but its value was much greater when the entry was made. This love for "fine puddings" explains much in the familiar rotund figure of King Hal.

A Matter of Gender.

The English language is supposed to be very simple in the matter of genders, but foreigners who triumphantly handle questions of gender of inanimate things in their own languages often have their difficulties with the English. A Frenchman recently came to grief over his English. "I fear I cockroach too much upon your time, madame," he remarked politely to his hostess. "En-croach, monsieur," she smilingly corrected him. He threw up his hands in despair. "Ah, your English genders!" he sighed.

Ambiguous English.

"Have you ever tried to explain the various meanings of some of our English verbs to a foreigner?" asked a lady who employs many servants. "My German maid went to the drug store the other day for some headache medicine and returned very much puzzled.

"'The man say, "Vill you take it or shall I send it?"' she reported. 'Eef he do not send it, how can I take it?'"

Road Master Bettell of the Southern Pacific Company and J. Thompson, his assistant, had a narrow escape from being killed near Melita on Thursday last. They were spinning along the rails on a motor car and upon rounding a curve were horrified to discover a freight train almost upon them. Both men jumped just in time to save their lives, as they had barely landed on one side of the track ere the motor car was struck by the engine of the on-rushing freight train and completely demolished.

Another example of the eff paid by Californians, and particularly San Francisco to Eastern people make a bee line for Chinatown the first thing and count it the most wonderful and characteristic feature of the West. We, who see Chinamen and their habitations do not think anything of it. Indeed two-thirds of our population here have never taken in the Chinatown of San Francisco.

Then, too, it takes a foreigner to appreciate our government and administrative system.

We who have been brought up under the flag, and allowed to vote at twenty one, with the slightest qualifications are eligable to any office in the country including United States President, are apt to forget what a glorious freedom we enjoy. We do not think of the old country governments, of the monarchies, yes, and even the republics, such as France, where the system of spies prevails. Even over this we are not inclined to enthuse.

Many other examples could still be mentioned to show the truth of this failure to appreciate what we have at home. It is for the speaker and the writer to open the eyes of the people sometimes and remind them of what they possess.

Washington's Birthday.

THE commeoration of that great day which marks the birth of America's patriot George Washington is once again approaching. No words can better describe why Washington is so rightfully emulated as those of Dr. Andrew Reed, an English philanthropist, who paid this tribute to the memory of this great man: "Washington, the brave, the wise, the good; Washington supreme in War, in Council and in Peace; Washington, valiant without ambition; discreet without fear; confident without presumption; Washington, in disaster, calm; in success moderate; in all, himself; Washington, the hero, the patriot, the Christian; the father of Nations, the friend of mankind; Who when he had won all, renounced all, and sought in the bosom of his family and nature, retirement, and in the hope of religion, immortality."

H. H. Granice who was so ill last week is now convalescent and will resume his business care once again. He will be found in his sanctum hereafter as usual.

Wanted the Baby.

Little Alice Merlin-Jones of Glen Ellen is a baby fancier so when she read in a Frisco paper that there was a little waif to be given away, she wrote for it. The waif was baby Grace "Valentine" who was abandoned at the Emergency Hospital. The young Glen Ellen benefactress enclosed $2 for the infant and promised to take the best of care of the little stranger, if the matron would only send her along.

Valentine's Day was observed here by the sending of comic and tender missives.

SEED TIME
The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.
The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and ... return of the disease ... gs, Lebanon, Kan.

POPULAR OFFICIAL VISITS SONOMA

R. X. Ryan of the C. N. W R'y Looks Over the Valley and Predicts Lively Summer Season

R. X. Ryan, General Passenger and Freight Agent of the California Northwestern Railway, and one of the most popular officials of the road was in town Wednesday. Mr. Ryan is deeply interested in the future of this Valley for he says it has one. He was pleased to see the many new homes that have been erected here and declares that we will have many summer visitors this season. He says that those who spend their vacations here are well pleased with our attractions. Mr. Ryan is highly thought of by the people of our Valley for they feel that it is owing to him that we have been able to get the summer visitors and our lively seasons every year.

When asked concerning his road's connection and attitude toward the Schocken-Weber Railway the gentleman was rather reticent, stating that they were watching the other fellows, and his tone seemed to indicate that the California Northwestern does not take electric opposition seriously enough to figure on buying it out or paying it off.

Interesting Lecture.

Mr. Champlin of the Tokyo Normal School, Japan, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on Japanese school system before the upper classes of the Napa High School Friday morning. Besides outlining the school system Mr. Champlin also spoke of the pecular customes of the people, of the climate, government and wonderful progress of the country. The lecture from beginning to end was very instructive to the students and was greatly enjoyed by them.

DEATH TAKES NOTED WOMAN

Mrs. Vallejo Frisbie, Born in Sonoma's old Mission and States's First White Child, Dies.

Mrs. Francisco Gaudaloupe Vallejo Frisbie, wife of General Frisbie and a daughter of the late General Vallejo, died in the city of Mexico on Wednesday. Mrs Frisbie was the first white child born in California, having been born about 1834 in the old Mission of San Francisco Solano. When General Vallejo came to Sonoma he found no building in this town except the Mission building, where he took quarters with his family. It was here in this long, low, tiled roof building that the daughter, who later became Mrs. General Frisbie, was born. Her father later built a palatial dwelling costing something like $200,000. Here she was educated by Dr. VerMehr Fredrick Reger and Andrew Hepner, the first tutors California's daughters ever had.

Mrs. Frisbie's marriage was a notable event. She has been a very charitable and noble lady and with her passing a prominent women has been taken away from the State.

Mrs O. Gordenker, who for the past few weeks has been at the California Hospital for women in San Francisco receiving treatment for an ulcerated stomach, is much improved in health and will soon be able to return home.

Mr. Eran Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen, has fully made up his mind to become a tiller of the soil and has resigned from a good position with the Southern Pacific which he held for years, to become an honest farmer. Mr. Allen has rented what is known as the old Greenlaw Cooper place, now owned by Mr. Robert Hill. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen are very popular young people and we are glad to welcome them in our midst.

Dr. E. Crepin and daughter visited Santa Rosa Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid Society met at the residence of Mrs. A. E. Gaige last Tuesday. It was decided to give an oyster supper next Tuesday evening, February 21st, at Mayflower Hall. The supper will consist of oysters, salads, sandwiches, coffee and cake served from 1:30 until 8:30 P. M. There will also be a short programme. It is hoped that all who can will make a special effort to come and partake of the feast as the good ladies will spare no means to make this supper a grand success. The oysters will be imported and served in real French style a la de Froment.

Mrs. Theresa Bell, was up from San Francisco last Sunday looking after her farming interests here.

Mr. Durrant of the Halsted ranch has sold his olives to parties in Kenwood.

The Dunbar Improvement Club held a special meeting last Monday in the childrdns play house at the Dunbar school grounds to send in a protest to the road bill introduced in the Legislature advocating the road bill drafted by the Glen Ellen convention here last spring. At this same meeting a committee of three was appointed to draft a a protest against the state tax on wine manufactures. The committee consisting of Thomas Johnson, Frank Lemoine and Leopold Justi.

Mrs. Theodore Wagner, of "Cassa Wagner" is transacting business in San Francisco.

Herman Hotz visited Santa Rosa one day this week.

The Rev. Chekurian has received an official call from the officers of the Congregational Church of this place as its pastor. The reverend gentleman is a man of wide experience and talent and he will be an acquisition to this community and a great help to the church.

It is to be hoped that in the future persons running automobiles will be a little more considerate of others and not go at full speed up O'Donnell avenue during church hours, frightening teams and causing destruction to other people's property, as the case was last Sunday when several teams took fright. Luckily but one man's team, Mr. Quien's, ran away. He had the misfortune of having his spring wagon smashed up.

Supervisor Blair Hart was in Glen Ellen looking after the roads this week.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Phil Rossi's new, two-story cottage, which is being built by A. E. Warriner, is nearing completion. In addition to this improvement is is Mr. Rossi's intention to erect a new saloon building opposite Felici Clerici's resort in the near future.

George Engler and Walter Murphy were Sonoma visitors to this burg Tuesday.

J. T. Peters the real estate man was in town Sunday.

O. W. Corbin, the well known chicken raiser of this place, and Tony Cereghino, a butcher of Glen Ellen, had an experience with a hawk last Saturday that they will not soon forget. The hawk had been shot and wounded by Mr. Corbin and when he attempted to pick the bird up it fastened its sharp talions on one of his hands, and no matter how hard he tried he could not shake it off. Mr. Corbin's cry for assistance brought to his aid Mr. Cereghino, who was passing near-by in his butcher wagon. He seized the hawk with his right hand and attempted to compel it to break its hold on Mr. Corbin's hand when it fastened the other claw into one of his hands and held on to both men for several minutes when they succeeded in dispatching the hawk and releasing their hands from its talions. Both were painfully hurt and it will take some little time for their wounds to heal.

Road Master Bettell of the Southern Pacific Company and J. Thompson, his assistant, had a narrow escape from being killed near Melita on Thursday last. They were spinning along the rails on a motor car and upon rounding a curve were horrified to discover a freight train almost upon them. Both men jumped just in time to save their lives, as they had barely landed on one side of the track ere the motor car was struck by the engine of the on-rushing freight train and completely demolished.

Wm. H. Kerner of the Sonoma "O. K." saloon was a passenger on the Southern Pacific train Wednesday. He was en route to Santa Rosa.

THE FIRST PRINTING.

Some of the Earliest Examples of the Art Preservative.

The following are the earliest known examples of printing—two indulgences, printed usually on one side only of a single piece of vellum and two magnificent Bibles. Of these one is known to be the first complete book that ever was printed by the wonderful new invention, which, as the early printers so often proudly state in their colophons, produced "letters without the aid of any sort of pen, whether of quill, of reed or of metal."

The first piece of printing which is actually dated is the famous indulgence of Nicholas V. to such as should contribute money to aid the king of Cyprus against the Turks. This indulgence has the printed year date 1454, and a copy in The Hague museum has the date "Nov. 15" filled in with a pen. Mr. Duff tells us that "in the years 1454 and 1455 there was a large demand for these indulgences, and seven editions were issued. These may be divided into two sets, the one containing thirty-one lines, the other thirty lines, the first dated example belonging to the former."

This thirty line edition is shown to have been printed by Peter Schoeffer de Gernsheim by the fact that some of the initial letters which occur in it appear in another later indulgence of 1489, which is known to have come from his press.—Saturday Review.

TREATING A SPRAIN.

Perfect Rest and Hot Fomentations the First Requisites.

The question of how to treat a sprain is often raised. Everybody understands the nature of a sprain; that wrenching of a joint whereby some of the ligaments (those very useful bands which unite the bones forming the joint) are violently stretched or perhaps even ruptured. This kind of injury is rarely, except through unusual complications, dangerous in its nature, but it is certainly very painful and when of a serious nature may result in the permanent impairment of the joint. Such an injury, if at all severe, is immediately followed by marked swelling of the parts, and prompt attention should be given anticipating the surgeon's coming. The very first item in the treatment of a sprain is perfect rest of the limb until a doctor can be summoned. Reduce the swelling by applications of hot fomentations as hot as can be endured, changing about once in every three hours. If a piece of oilskin be not at hand use common newspaper. Wind it carefully outside the hot cloth. This will prevent the escape of the steam and prevent the cloth from cooling. A good way to save the hands from being scalded is to place the hot, dripping flannel in a towel, then, taking hold of each end of the towel, to wring it until the flannel is dry enough to apply.

THE WHITE CZAR.

Russia's Ruler Owes This Title to the Slip of a Pen.

The czar of Russia owes one of his titles to a slip of the pen. The Chinese character pronounced Hwang, meaning emperor, was originally compounded of two elements, meaning "oneself" and "ruler," by which it was intimated that an emperor or ruler of men should, before all things, be master of himself.

In after ages, however, by the omission of a single stroke, this character assumed its present corrupted form, in which the component elements signify "white" and "ruler," white having taken the place of the original "oneself."

Some years ago it was pointed out by a St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Times that this had been literally translated by the Mongols into tchagan khan, and then by the Russians into biely czar, or the "white czar," by which name the emperor of Russia is now known throughout the whole of Asia.—London Telegraph.

A Thoughtful Beggar.

J. Stanley Todd, the portrait painter, was talking about the beggars of different lands. "I have met," said Mr. Todd, "beggars of every description—silly beggars, blustering ones, old beggars, robust ones—but the most remarkable beggar of the lot was a man whom I never met, yet whom I never assuredly will forget. All I saw of this beggar was his hat and his chair. The chair stood on a corner of the Rue St. Lazare in Paris. The hat lay on the chair, with a few coppers in it, and behind the hat was a placard reading, 'Please don't forget the beggar, who is now taking his luncheon.'"

A Humble Apology.

Conversation overheard in a London street; scene, laborer working on a scaffold, contemplating surrounding view, when his foreman comes along down below and, looking up and seeing him idle, calls out to him: "So yer having a look round! What do yer think of the weather?" Workman (looking down with contempt)—Noa; I'm a-working! Foreman—Oh, I beg yer pardon! I'm sorry I stopped yer!—London Globe.

What Tact Is.

What we call tact is the ability to find before it is too late what it is that our friends do not desire to learn from us. It is the art of withholding on proper occasions information which we are quite sure would be good for them. —S. M. Crothers.

Etiquette.

Anxious writes, "What are the duties of a father at his daughter's 'coming out' party?" To put up and shut up.—New York Herald.

What is celebrity? The advantage of being known to people who don't know you.—Chamfort.

Startling but True

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia. W. D. Wilcox, Logan, New York. Sold by Shoults & Co.

Skirts are wider than ever.

The surplice waist is once again the style.

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup (the child will cry for it), and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Vliet, New Castle Colo., writes, March 19, 1901: "I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant." 25c, 50c and $1.00 Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

Are You Restless at Night

And harassed by a bad cough? Use Ballard's Horehound Syrup, it will secure you sound sleep and effect a prompt and radical cure. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

FAMOUS ENGLISH WELLS.

Some Whose Waters Are Charged With Magic or Miraculous Power.

Though there are hundreds of wells supposed to possess magical power scattered all over England, the general public is ignorant of their locality or the romantic stories connected with each one. There may be a possible exception in the well of St. Keyne, in Cornwall, for Southey has made it famous in a witty little poem. The magic of its waters is such that the husband or wife who drinks first from it after leaving the altar will have the upper hand over the mate for their joint lives. The bride of whom Southey tells us did not wait till after the marriage ceremony to pay a visit to the well, but took the precaution of taking a bottle with her to the church.

Another well, in Monmouthshire, which has a peculiar fascination for the unmarried maidens ... known is the "virtuous well." For generations the maidens of that locality have accredited it with marvelous powers in forecasting their futures. They have only to drop a pebble into its water and count the resultant bubbles, for each bubble represents a month of waiting for the day which will make them brides. In order to propitiate the genius which presides over the well it is necessary to decorate the brambles which shade it with bits of white cloth.

Then there are the so called holy wells which have many medicinal virtues. Such a one is St. Winifred's, at Holywell, which is accredited with cures that are almost miraculous. The legend of its origin is a very pretty one. It is said that twelve centuries ago St. Winifred, the winsome daughter of a Welsh chief, was wooed by Prince Caradoc, a prince of ill repute. She declined his persistent advances, and at last he killed her in a fit of rage. From the spot on which St. Winifred's lifeblood fell there gushed forth a stream of crystal water which has worked miracles in her name for so many centuries.

Practically all the ills to which the flesh is heir can be cured by one or another of these wells. St. Ninan's, in Cornwall, is said to restore lunatics to sanity, but the patient must be immersed in the water and held there until the breath has nearly left his body. This seems a heroic measure. But even this is not so severe as the treatment which must be endured if a madman is to be cured at Llandegla well, in Wales, for after the victim is nearly drowned he is trussed like a fowl and laid under the communion table of the neighboring church for the night.

Afraid of Strong Medicines.

Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually given for rheumatism, not knowing that quick relief from pain may be had simply by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and without taking any medicine internally. Rev. Amos Parker of Magnolia, North Carolina, suffered for eight years with a lame hip, due to severe rheumatic pains. He has been permanently cured by the free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Shoults & Co.

White combs are still fashionable.

Itch—Ringworm.

E. T Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes, April 25th, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ringworm, and it cured completely. 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottle. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

Monday was the coldest day of the season:

The officers are seeking a woman named Nellie Allen in a charge of insanity. The women escaped detention and made her way near here, but when word arrived asking her apprehension, all trace of her has been lost.

Health

Means the ability to do a good day's work without undue fatigue, and to find life worth living. You cannot have indigestion or constipation without its upsetting the liver and polluting the blood. Such a condition may be quickest and best and quickest obtained by Herbine, the best liver regulator that the world has ever known. Mrs. D. W. Smith writes, April 3, 1902: "I use Herbine, and find it the best medicine for constipation and regulating the liver I ever used." Price 50 cents. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

Pruning is in full blast in this valley. Indications point to a fine fruit crop.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Mother's Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Shoults & Co.

It will pay you to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarshoea Remedy in your home. It only costs a quarter. For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Winter Route East.

When you think of going East, think of the Texas & Pacific, the true Southern Route, as it is called.

We can plan for you an ideal Winter trip through the fertile San Joaquin Valley or down the picturesque coast line of the Southern Pacific via Los Angeles, journeying through the beautiful Orange and Olive groves of Southern California, getting a glimpse of the Old World civilization of Old Mexico en route and on through the cotton fields of the Southland.
